COPYRIGHT & INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY POLICY

Effective date: 11 September 2026

1. OWNERSHIP

Original editorial, photographic, graphic, video, audio, design, software, database and other materials created or commissioned by CHEGE PUBLISHING (PTY) LTD for African Power, Mining & Oil Review (APMO Review) magazine and APMOREview.com may be protected by copyright and related rights.

2. BRAND

The APMO Review name, logos, website, publication design and associated branding may not be reproduced or used in a manner that implies endorsement or affiliation without permission.

3. PERMITTED SHARING

Readers may share links to APMO Review pages and may use quotations within the limits permitted by law, with clear attribution and a link or reference to the original publication where practical.

4. PROHIBITED USE

Unless permitted by law or written licence, users may not systematically reproduce, republish, sell, licence, mirror, bulk-download, scrape, train datasets from, or commercially exploit APMO Review content.

5. FAIR DEALING AND OTHER LEGAL EXCEPTIONS

Nothing in this Policy is intended to remove rights that cannot lawfully be removed, including applicable exceptions for fair dealing, criticism, review, reporting current events and quotation.

6. THIRD-PARTY MATERIAL

Some material may be supplied by contributors, agencies, interviewees, advertisers or licensed sources. Third-party rights remain with the relevant rights holder unless otherwise agreed.

7. AI AND DATA EXTRACTION

Automated collection, bulk extraction, dataset creation, machine learning use or generative-AI training involving APMO Review content requires a lawful basis and, where applicable, permission or licence. Robots.txt or technical controls may supplement this Policy but do not by themselves define the full legal position.

8. CONTRIBUTOR MATERIAL

Contributors retain rights to their work except to the extent rights are assigned or licensed by written agreement. Publication rights may be governed by contributor terms.

9. INFRINGEMENT REPORTS

Copyright complaints should identify the work, explain the alleged infringement, provide the location of the material, and include contact information and a good-faith basis for the complaint. Send notices to mchege@apmoreview.com.

10. REVIEW AND TAKEDOWN

We may review credible complaints, request supporting information, temporarily restrict material where appropriate, contact the relevant contributor and take corrective or removal action where warranted. A complaint does not automatically establish infringement.

11. FALSE CLAIMS

Knowingly false or abusive infringement claims may be rejected.
